The Galaxy Test System Family

Stand-alone Galaxy Automated Test System units are easy to use, versatile, and require no computer, controller or network interface. All gas tubing and communication paths are pre-connected and internal. Pressure-demand regulator doesn't waste calibration gas. Simply place your instrument in its test stand and close the door; testing is performed automatically. This innovative, durable, reliable, and cost-effective system also offers optional charging capability, replaceable battery pack, and standard web browser accessibility for data retrieval and reporting.
